Just thinkin...

How is it that life can seem to fly by so quickly? I mean, without much warning, that time which, in one sense, never seems to end, is suddenly gone--as in LONG GONE!

I can remember from childhood: grown ups all around, driving, buying things, in charge, enjoying privileges a kid can only dream of. As a teen and young adult, certain restrictions fall, but the angst remains...when will I truly grow up?

Then one day it happens..you're forty-five, truly free to roam and be, but tried by the pain of an older body. Yet in your mind, the child still longs to play...maybe not much time has passed after all!

"School's [ALMOST] Out Forever"!

It's incredible to believe that it will soon be four years since we made our exodus out of Wisconsin and into the heart of the Windy City! How quickly the time has passed. And yet, looking back, so much has happened, both outwardly and inwardly to us, we agree that our time spent in Chicago has been for us a period of stretching, renewal, growth and challenge--four years can be a long time, afterall!

One particularly important area of growth for us has been in regard to the idea of an "urban landscape." Each of us having been raised in mostly-white communities, our initiation into this wonderful vegetable soup of races, colors, beliefs and cultures was, at first, startling--to say the least. However, as the days and weeks passed, and as we intentionally engaged and embraced the new community in which we now lived, barriers fell, new friendships formed and some old mores were questioned (such as...Why is it that we should fear black or hispanic styles of worship? Does God honor mixed-race marriage? Should those identifying themselves as "gay" be avoided--that we not be "unequally yoked" or tainted by them--or could this revelation be the very sign God would give us to seek opportunities to intentionally engage, in order to reach them with the truth of regeneration found only in Christ?).

Another challenge for us has been that of trusting God to provide, and this not as just some blind cliché. Case in point, for our first two months here, we lived only on our savings, a job we'd counted on for Melissa having fallen through. (Page 2)

Questions or Comments?

We'd Love to Hear from YOU!

As the living body of Christ, we continue to grow and thrive, only as we intentionally engage in community with each other. Our walk with Christ is so much more enriched when we intentionally contact and are contacted by our fellow brothers and sisters in Christ. We see it as an absolute privilege to partner with you on YOUR journey of joy!
